"Genius is one percent inspiration and ninety-nine percent perspiration."

He encouraged people to seize opportunities and to never give up on their dreams, no matter how daunting they may seem:

"If you want something done, ask a busy man to do it. He will know how to find the time."

"The best way to make your dreams come true is to wake up."

The Value of Thrift and Financial Responsibility

Franklin was a staunch advocate for thrift and financial responsibility. He believed that prudent financial management was essential for both individual and societal well-being:

"A penny saved is a penny earned."

"If you would be wealthy, think of saving as well as getting."

He emphasized the importance of avoiding debt and cautioned against excessive spending:

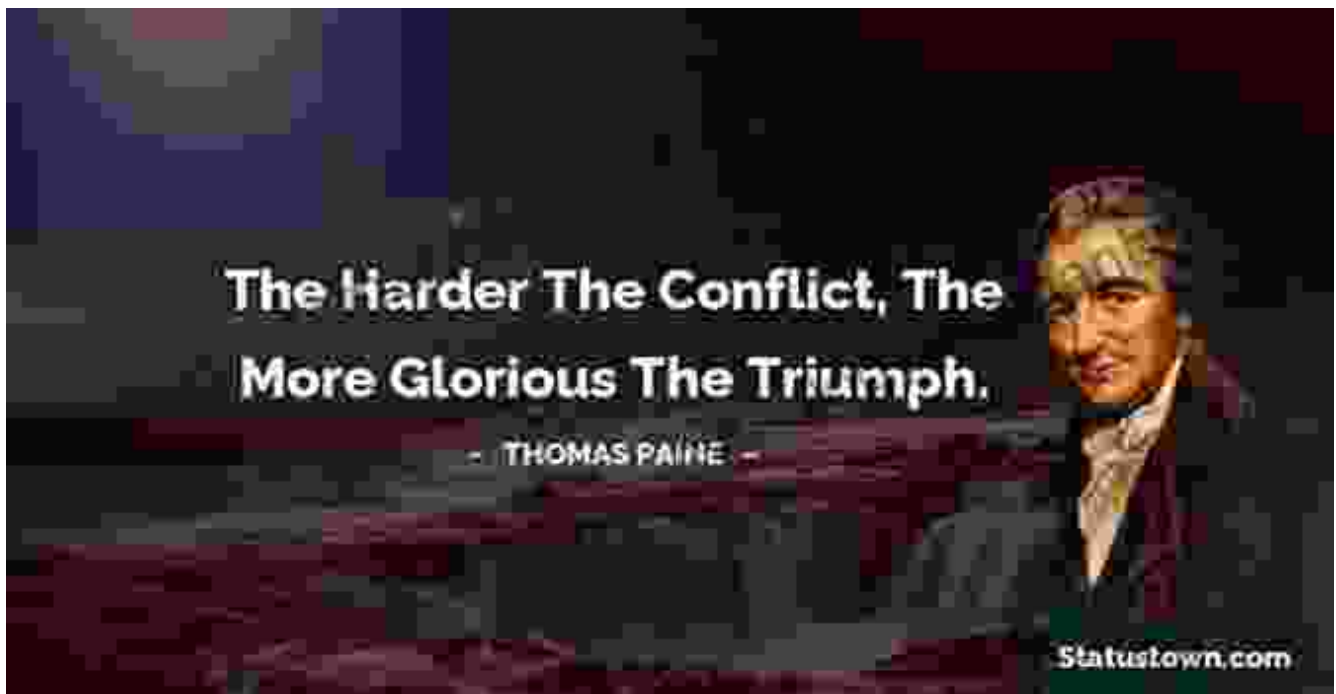

"The borrower is servant to the lender."

"Beware of little expenses; a small leak will sink a great ship."

The Power of Perseverance and Ingenuity

Franklin's quotes on perseverance and ingenuity highlight his unwavering belief in the human spirit and the ability to overcome adversity. He encouraged people to embrace challenges and to never lose sight of their goals:

"The harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph."

He recognized the importance of innovation and problem-solving, and urged people to think outside the box and to never give up on finding solutions:

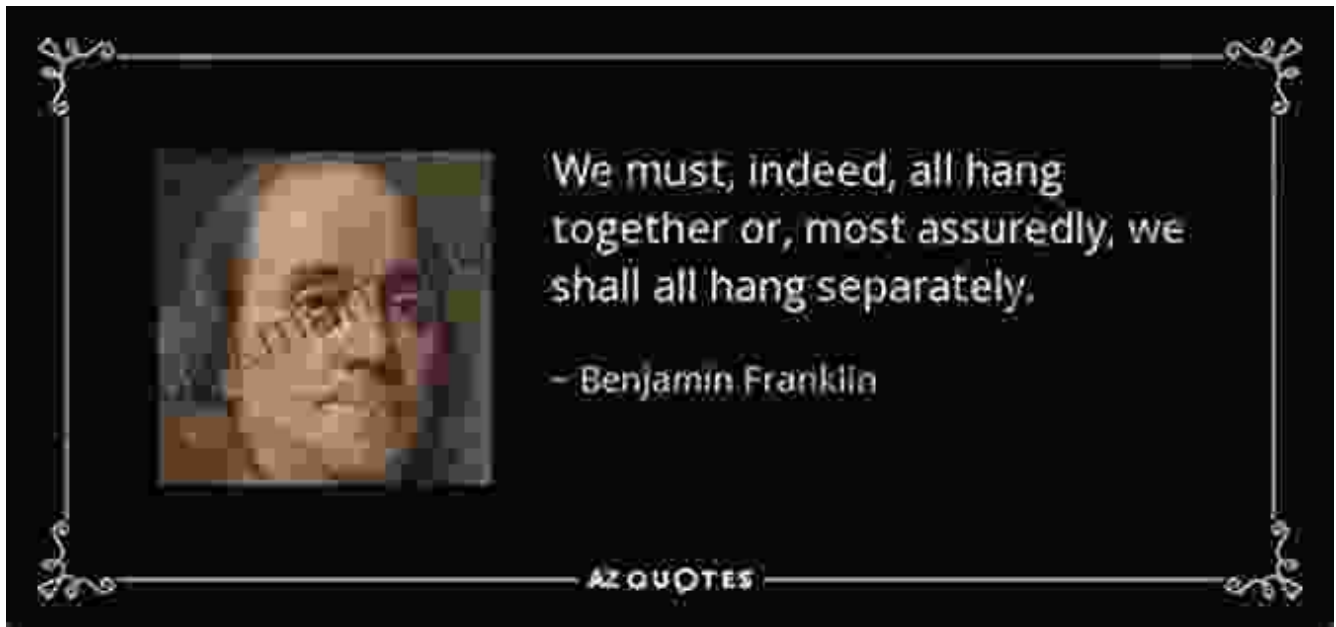

"Where there's a will, there's a way."

"Necessity is the mother of invention."

The Importance of Community and Unity

Franklin believed that a strong sense of community and unity was essential for a thriving society. He emphasized the importance of cooperation, mutual support, and common goals:

"We must all hang together, or assuredly we shall all hang separately."

He recognized the power of diversity and encouraged people to embrace different perspectives and backgrounds:

"The old saw is true - that if you're going to have a beehive, it's best to have a variety of bees in it."
